Fashion Palette founder Sonya McFaddi believes the event will bring a unique offering the US market.

"Australia has some of the world's best designers and I'm so proud to be presenting such an amazing cross section of local talent in New York for the fifth time.

"From the inspired silhouettes of Bec & Bridge, Viktoria Novak's statement headpieces, to the bold prints and designs by Emma Mulholland X Mambo – FPNYFW will showcase some of the best we have to offer."

FPNYFW will launch on September 10th at Pier 59 Studios in Manhattan.

More than 20 Aussie labels have been selected to showcase during New York Fashion Week's Spring 2016 shows in September, exposing their collections to an general audience.

NYFW regulars TOME NYC, Dion Lee and Zimmermann will be behind on a runway, as good as Rebecca Vallance, that is garnering courtesy abroad for a lush fabrications and structured tailoring. The tag also showed on-schedule during NYFW in Feb 2014.

Runway Rock: NYFW Welcomes Designers From Down Under

Via 19 days ago

Aussie labels Bec & Bridge, Sabo Luxe and Duskii Active showcased their newest duds in the big Apple, together with a combination of cool tunes to accompany the runway show. On Thursday morning, Ny Type Week kicked off with Australia's 20 emerging designers presenting their spring 2016 collections. Among the emerging skills that presented were Duskii Active, Eder + Berk, Mauricio Alpizar, Sabo Luxe, Emma Mulholland X Mambo, Viktoria Novak, Belluccio, Emu Designs, Luom.o, Tatiana Light, Laguna Sydney, Hunt & Heart, and Bec & Bridge, with the latter counting Beyonce, Kendall Jenner and Keke Palmer among its creating Hollywood fan base. During the show, which used to be arranged via Australian fashion firm Type Palette, every clothier showcased looks that various from attractive cut-out dresses (Bec & Bridge) to dramatic silhouettes with patterns for days (Mauricio Alpizar) to sheer beach-ready frocks (Laguna Sydney).
